Best Hotel 2017: Hilton Garden Inn

By Daily Republic staff From page REA40 | February 26, 2017

For the 13th consecutive year the Hilton Garden Inn is the winner of the Best Hotel in Fairfield.

But the ongoing annual recognition is not going to induce a sense of complacency among the many Hilton employees dedicated to making a stay a positive experience for each of its guests.

“Our hotel will begin a major remodel of our guest rooms beginning in early spring” said John McKaig, the hotel’s assistant general manager. “We have begun the purchasing and receiving process. The refresh will encompass all of our guest room floors and include every aspect of the interior design. As well, we will refresh and modernize the kitchen and bar.

“The thing that makes us stand out is service. Service through empowerment, working shoulder to shoulder with our associates. Our team is a family, that takes pride in being the best that we can be.

“Our entire management team has been with the hotel for many years, with our leadership having served our investors, since the hotel’s opening in 2002,” McKaig said.

The team at the Hilton also believes in supporting the local community.

“Our hotel is active in many ways through our outreach programs in the community,” McKaig said. “Any and all donations of furniture goods are given to Mission Solano. We support our local law enforcement with meals at Thanksgiving and Christmas for those on shift – trying to bring the holidays to those whom watch over us and keep us safe.”
